

Embrace the Unexpected

in this heartwarming tale of two kids in search of a ghost

Diego, Whynd, and the Block Island Ghost

celebrates the transformative power of friendship and the bravery it takes to explore the unknown

Diego Menendez was hoping to spend the summer in Nicaragua with his cousins, but instead finds himself living in a haunted hotel on Block Island, where he reluctantly befriends Whynd, a spunky local girl determined to find the hotel's resident ghost.

The summer turns into a wild escapade full of mystery and Diego realizes that living in an old, haunted hotel is kind of cool and hanging out with someone who asks a lot of questions, can help you find answers you never knew you were looking for.

CAT URBAIN

was inspired to write children's books while working at Weston Woods Studios, where she directed and edited children's films. She currently works as a writer for Yale University. A former middle school teacher, she also served as Executive Director of the Connecticut Storytelling Center, a media educator for the Children's Museum of Manhattan, and a volunteer at the Hole in the Wall Gang Camp where a camper asked her to write a story about a kid, a horse and a ghost, so she did. Cat has been a featured author at the Shoreline Chapter of SCBWI, the Connecticut Library Consortium, Mystic Seaport, the Tassy Walden Book Awards, the Hudson Book Festival, public libraries, and Barnes & Noble.
